Graduate Reviews

Hillsong College set my life up for the greatest win! Being fully immersed in an environment where you are constantly being poured into, given countless opportunities to outwork your gifts and talents, and even corrected when you go a little too far off the deep end, helped shape me to be the woman and leader I am today.”
— Allison, USA | Worship Music Graduate

“One of the most meaningful things that Hillsong College modeled to me is the importance of discipleship. This was constantly reflected in the words and actions of every College and Church staff; always uplifting and encouraging.”
— Josh, Canada | Master of Arts Graduate

“The Bachelor of Theology course has stretched my faith, enlightened me on my Christian beliefs, and shed light on questions I’ve had throughout the years. It has equipped me to help others understand Christian faith and belief in a more effective way.”
— Stacey, Indonesia | Bachelor of Theology Graduate

“The Master of Arts course was probably one of the most challenging things I’ve ever signed up for. It taught me to value research, appreciate opposing views and where to find good answers. More than anything it humbled me to stay teachable by realising how much I didn’t know and I’m grateful for that.”
— Wesley, Brazil | Master of Arts Graduate

“The hands-on experience I had while I was in College was highly instrumental in helping me get where I am today in the Film & TV world. The best way to improve your craft is to do it over and over again and Hillsong College gives you plenty of opportunities to get those experiences which helps you grow and develop your God given talents.”
— Matt, USA | Film & TV Graduate

Graduate Reviews

“Having done three years of the Vocational Program and then studying the Bachelor of Theology course in depth was amazing. Learning more about God does not only lead to incredible revelations for myself but it helps me disciple people!”
— Joshua, Germany | Bachelor of Theology Graduate

“College is a watering hole for creativity, a house filled with creative minds and innovative ideas. I’ve had the privilege of working alongside so many incredible creators and leaders who consistently push and inspire me. I have not only gained practical skills such as editing and marketing strategies, but I have learned leadership – Godly, servant leadership.”
— Hayley, Australia | Pastoral Leadership Graduate

“Before coming to College, we had a fashion brand which was our focus, so we were designing our own apparel... we knew going to College would help us build a foundation in our Christian walk and we also felt it would give us inspiration even in our craft.”
— Susanna and Joanna, UK | Pastoral Leadership Graduates

“The best thing about Hillsong College Online is that you can study anywhere! I’ve done lectures on an airplane, in a hotel room, in my bedroom — you can even do them on your phone and that’s probably my favourite thing, how flexible the options are to study.”
— Jonathan ‘JD’ Douglass, Australia | Hillsong College Online

“Throughout this season at College, God has taken me on a journey of discovering my purpose and identity in Christ as the Aboriginal woman He created me to be. These years have been life defining, as I have grown in my understanding of God, His Word, and His people.”
— Mikenzie, Australia | Bachelor of Theology Graduate

Undergraduate

CRICOS NSW 00958A | AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS AND ONLINE

Hillsong College offers undergraduate study in biblical studies, ministry and theology. This degree allows individuals to grow in knowledge and acquire the necessary tools to lead churches and ministries. This is achieved through a depth of theological, biblical, ministry, and leadership studies, while being strategically connected with Hillsong College and the Hillsong Church community.

It is the community and life of Hillsong Church that sets this degree program apart from others like it. The placement of Hillsong College within Hillsong Church gives students the opportunity to constantly apply and outwork what they are learning in the classroom in a church setting. Students don't simply receive "head knowledge" that is detached from daily ministry life, but are instead equipped in greater depth with biblical, theological, and leadership teaching to take and apply into church life.

UNDERGRADUATE

Bachelor of Theology

The Bachelor of Theology (BTh) integrates a well-developed foundation in Christian studies with broad and coherent theological and practical knowledge in theology and biblical studies. It is a dynamic theological degree, which prepares you to understand and apply Biblical texts and Biblical thinking to contemporary ministry, not only in the global Christian church of the 21st Century, but in every sphere of life.

Units of Study

The following list includes all subjects (units) of study currently available across our undergraduate awards.

UNIT OF STUDY	OVERVIEW
ANL151 New Testament Greek 1	While they can be very good, New Testament translations can only do so much. Inevitably, translation teams have to make interpretive decisions regarding how to bring out the meaning of the Biblical text, and this can sometimes reflect theological bias or simply miss some of the richness and subtlety present in the original languages. Here at Hillsong College, we will help to equip you with the necessary tools to negotiate the sometimes difficult terrain of understanding the NT text on its own terms; not just to be able to bring out simple English (or other) transliterations, but to interact with and grasp the meaning of the original texts. Using innovative linguistic research will help you to begin to grasp hold of this extraordinary language, in particular its grammar, so that you can go deeper into the word of God; not just for yourself, but also for all those you minister to. Course code: ANL151 Credit points: 10
ANL251 New Testament Greek 2	New Testament Greek 2 builds on Greek 1 to give you a solid foundation for your knowledge of Biblical Greek. This unit rounds out a full year of Greek study and will equip you with a good working knowledge of Greek grammar, and it is from this basis that you can launch into more advanced syntactical and exegetical study of the New Testament texts. Greek 2, in a way, puts 'wheels' on your study of Greek, as we come to see more fully the beauty of the Greek verbal system and its significance for understanding the original texts. Course code: ANL251 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: ANL151 — New Greek Testament 1
BIB102 Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament)	Understanding the Bible is foundational for Christian life. Whilst many of us have read the Bible, there are many sections that are seemingly foreign and strange, or that we simply just avoid. This unit aims to introduces you to Israel's Scriptures, the Old Testament, and its “Big-Picture” message as we grapple with its different genres, themes and contexts. We will explore the historical and thematic developments of the Old Testament books, assisting you to understand how the different books and message all fit together. Further, we will discuss how the message of Old Testament Scriptures – set in a very different context to ours – can be applied today. Course code: BIB102 Credit points: 10
BIB103 Introduction to the New Testament	Understanding the Bible is foundational for Christian life. Whilst many of us have read the Bible, there are many sections that are seemingly foreign and strange, or that we simply just avoid. This unit aims to introduces you to the New Testament and its “Big-Picture” message as we grapple with its different genres, themes and contexts. The primary focus will be on the message of each book and its authors within their particular historical-cultural setting, with some attention being given to tis contribution to the theology of the NT as a whole. We will explore the historical and thematic developments of the New Testament books overall, assisting you to understand how the different books and message all fit together. Further, we will discuss how the message of New Testament Scriptures – set in a very different context to ours – can be applied today. Course code: BIB103 Credit points: 10
BIB210 The Pentateuch	At the beginning of the bible, we find the Pentateuch or Torah. Genesis to Deuteronomy are essential for understanding our faith today. For ancient Israel it described their origins, creation stories, ancestors, exodus from Egypt, covenant with Yahweh, the journey to the Promised Land and their worship of Yahweh. Similarly for us as Christians, our salvation-story is framed by the people, images and stories found in the Pentateuch. In this unit we will explore these foundational themes of creation, faith, salvation, covenant, worship, land and journeying present in the Pentateuch. We will particularly discover the wonder of the Pentateuch's literary structure and techniques as well as the world it constructs. We will also survey how the Pentateuch sets the stage for what follows in the rest of the biblical canon. Course code: BIB210 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel's Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament

All accredited courses are offered through Alphacrucis College.

UNIT OF STUDY	OVERVIEW
BIB212 Minor Prophets	Towards the end of the Old Testament are a collection of twelve usually overlooked prophetic books, known as the Minor Prophets. This unit will blow the dust from the Minor Prophets, to get a glimpse into the ancient history of Israel, the prophets and their God-given message. We will specifically study the Minor Prophets as a collage, to highlight the collections’ literary nature, themes, settings and rhetoric, as well as its portrayal of Yahweh. Further, you will be encouraged to harness your own ‘prophetic imagination’ so that you can be a messenger of God to your own generation. Course code: BIB212 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
BIB251 Johannines	The Gospel and Letters of John are dearly loved by many Christians today. Rich in theology and symbolism, these texts draw heavily on the Jewish tradition fulfilled in Jesus the Messiah. This unit will equip you to interpret and apply these extraordinary texts, as well as help you to see the ways in which the story of Jesus fulfils the testimony of Israel. Course code: BIB251 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
BIB254 The World of the New Testament	Why would Paul, A Hebrew speaking Jew, writing to Latin speaking Romans, use Greek? Why was the liberating message of the crucified Messiah considered “foolish?” What did the first Christians look like to outsiders? Did Paul really endorse slavery and male headship? So many aspects and difficult issues of the NT are overlooked or misunderstood in the 21st century for the very simple reason that we don’t understand the world of the original text. This course takes a look at the culture, customs, and values of the first century, especially as they relate to the NT. It asks the question “What was that world like?” and “How does the NT challenge it?” It shows how radical this minority group – the Christians – were in the face of the Roman Empire and invites the student to be challenged in their own convictions and values as 21st century Christians. Course code: BIB254 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
BIB351 Luke-Acts	Luke-Acts is a two-volume work which tracks the movement from the ministry of Jesus through to the early church (and beyond!). Obviously this text is therefore of great significance in the New Testament, and has been used by Pentecostals for over a century in our quest to recover a truly biblical faith. This unit examines the narrative of Luke-Acts in a way that holds together the historical and theological foci, and seeks to equip you with a solid reading strategy for approaching these remarkable texts. Course code: BIB351 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
BIB352 Romans and Galatians	Have you ever wondered why Christians don’t follow the full Mosaic Law? Have you ever asked what sets Paul’s thought into a storyline of history that informs his pastoral and theological reflections. If you are interested in understanding the core Gospel message and its relevance in our contemporary culture then this unit will scratch where you itch! Course code: BIB352 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
BIB355 Revelation	The Revelation (or the Apocalypse as it is often called, from its opening word in Greek) is by common consent one of the most difficult of all the books of the Christian Bible. Nevertheless, attention to its historical context, social and religious milieu, and literary genre will bring considerable light to bear on its form, content, and function, as well as its relevance for us today and in light of contemporary theological perspectives. Course code: BIB355 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament

BIB356 Studying the Synoptic Gospels	The unit examines the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark and Luke) and their (inter)relationship. Whilst their portrayal of Jesus is an obvious outcome, this subject will also explore some unique facets of each of the synoptics, such as the Messianic ‘secret’ of Mark, Matthew’s particular theology, as well as key Lukan passages. A key outcome will be the significance of the synoptics for Christian discipleship and ministry. Course code: BIB356 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
BIB359 New Testament Field Study	This unit provides students with a first-hand introduction to the relevant cultural, geographical, historical, and archaeological issues for the New Testament. This unit features an on-site field study program in the location of modern day Turkey and Greece – formative for the biblical text – including hikes, Biblical walks, visits to archaeological sites and traditional churches and museums that cast light on Paul’s missionary journeys and epistles, assisting us in exegetical tasks. This course may be offered in the following formats: Requires a Field Study component of approximately 10 days (75 hours), which includes orientation and preparation meetings. This is in addition to the approx. 50 hours out of class time for reading, research, writing, and ancillary activities associated with completion of assigned tasks. Course code: BIB359 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB102 — Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament) OR BIB103 — Introduction to the New Testament
EXP201 Professional Practice	Itching to connect the realm of the classroom with some real-life experience? Professional Practice is designed with just this aim in mind. Students will have the chance to engage academically with issues pertaining to their major specialisation plus experience a hands-on workplace placement. Working with an experienced supervisory mentor (no family members or close friends!), students will complete a 100 hour placement over the course of semester, with a variety of formats to choose from. For instance, do you have a heart for local church ministry? You could complete 8 hours a week in a ministry of Hillsong Church, working with a key leader or oversight. Or perhaps a block placement involved in one of the Hillsong Church’s annual Conferences would be the kick start needed... The sky is the limit! Course code: EXP201 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points
EXP301 Advanced Professional Practice	Advanced Professional Practice builds on Professional Practice. It provides a chance for students to continue the challenging but rewarding combination of academic reflection upon contemporary ministerial issues and hands-on experience whilst increasing your confidence and expertise. Like Professional Practice, you will work with an experienced supervisory mentor (no family members or close friends!), complete a 100 hour placement over the course of semester, with a variety of formats to choose from. Course code: EXP301 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: EXP201 — Professional Practice
HIS101 History of Christianity	This subject is an introduction to the rich and inspiring heritage of Christian tradition, from the time of Christ to the current era, examined within social and cultural contexts. It explores early church formation, the challenges of the Medieval era, the repercussions of the Renaissance and the reasons for the Reformation. Major revivals are analysed as well as the effectiveness of modern missionary movements. The struggles and strengths of the 20th century are also revealed, as well as various issues facing the 21st century church. By exploring such historical shifts in spirituality and society, students will gain understanding of both contingency and continuity in Christian history, in order to deepen their understanding of gospel ministry today. Course code: HIS101 Credit points: 10
HIS302 Early and Medieval Christian History	This subject examines the context, origins and development of early Christianity and its impact on the surrounding communities from the Apostolic Age to the Continental Reformation. It explores how the rapid expansion of the church brought various social, cultural and theological challenges and examines how these were addressed. The contextualisation of medieval Christian thoughts and actions are discussed, as well as their formative influences in contemporary contexts. An analysis of major reform movements will also reveal how they have shaped the history of Christianity. Course code: HIS302 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: 40 Credit Points OR HIS101 — History of Christianity

MIN102 Christian Spirituality	Ever wondered if there were other ways to express faith, apart from lifting your hands during worship? Would you like to deepen the spirituality of your local Christian community, but find yourself hesitating, uncertain of the appropriate boundaries? Students with these questions and more will find themselves challenged as they partake in this foundational unit, designed specifically to introduce charismatic and Pentecostal Christians to the broader history of Christian spiritual approaches. In doing so, students will explore spirituality in the scriptures, and have a chance to connect with their heritage and participate in a broad range of spiritual exercises practiced by the wider body of Christ throughout history. Course code: MIN102 Credit points: 10
MIN202 Communicating the Christian Faith	The ‘E’ word: Evangelism – is a concept that can equally incite ‘excitement’ and ‘excruciation’. In this unit, extroverts and introverts alike will find themselves engaging with the historical, biblical and theological roots for communicating the Gospel and gaining the skills (along with the empowering of the Spirit) to communicate effectively. In doing so, students will explore ways to engage with a world where the acceptance of the Christian story is counter-cultural, as well as ways to connect the good news of the kingdom to contemporary social concerns. Course code: MIN202 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview
MIN203 Preaching	Have you ever wished that you could bottle the persuasiveness and power of your favourite preacher in order to supercharge your own sermons and see your congregation transformed? When it comes to sermons, the bridge between the first century text and twenty-first century context can often seem longer than 2000-plus years. If you want to discover what turns effective preaching into life-changing preaching, and bring revelation to postmodern people who struggle with the Christian story, then look no further. Get ready to be equipped with the rhetorical tools in this unit to craft a message so powerful that it will be impossible for your audience to leave unchanged. Course code: MIN203 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points plus MIN101 — Introduction to Pastoral Ministry
RES101 Introduction to Academic Writing and Research	New to university studies & it all seems too hard? Worried about writing essay papers? Or where to begin researching? Or do you feel confident in writing, but want to learn the skills of evaluating the masses of information we are bombarded with? This unit is for you! It will give you the tools to succeed in your undergraduate academic studies. It will examine how you learn, plus challenge you to think deeper, wider and more creatively. It will also encourage you in how to critically evaluate and reflect on information, plus develop your skills in how to put it all together in an essay paper or oral presentation. Course code: RES101 Credit points: 10
SOC201 Theology of Social Justice	This unit provides a biblical theology of holistic mission and Gospel proclamation that takes seriously the responsibility of the church to address issues of justice and poverty. It argues scripturally and theologically that the good news of the Kingdom of God has vital implications for social and cultural values and practice. Too often in our western society we see political ideology claiming these values. As Christians we need to reclaim them as expressions of our faith, and as reflections of God’s Kingdom on earth. Course code: SOC201 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview
THE101 Christian Worldview	Do you have questions about God, humanity and the world that you have been unable to answer? Do you sometimes wonder whether Christian beliefs about things like the Trinity and the divinity of Jesus make any sense? This unit provides you with the opportunity to explore those beliefs that are foundational to Christianity. It argues that what we believe about God (our theology) has a practical impact upon our life and ethics and, therefore, provides an overview of Christian faith, and reflects on the ways in which this faith informs our everyday life and calling. The topics addressed range from the doctrine of God, creation and sin, to discussion on the person and work of Christ, and the nature of the coming Kingdom of God and His Church. Course code: THE101 Credit points: 10
THE201 Christian Ethics	In an era of moral relativism, Christians should stand out as moral beacons. However, it is increasingly the case that the Church is seen not as a community of love but, rather, as a legalistic, dogmatic, mean-spirited and hypocritical institution. This unit helps students to think through how they go about making ethical decisions. It argues against legalism, and sets up a theological method of approaching ethics that prioritises grace and the power of the Spirit. It also facilitates guided reflection on personal morality and societal ethical issues. Course code: THE201 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview

THE202 Christ and Salvation	Is it an oxymoron (contradiction) to claim that Jesus is both human and divine? How do we make sense of Jesus’ death on the cross? Is the resurrection something that can be believed in this modern scientific era? These are the sort of questions addressed in this unit, which provides students with the opportunity to explore central elements of Christian faith at a deeper level of theological reflection. It explores what has traditionally been labelled the “person” and “work” of Jesus, i.e. “who is he?” and “what did he do for us?”. In answering these questions, students are encouraged to reflect on both the ancient traditions of the bible and early church and, further, to discuss the significance of Jesus Christ for contemporary Christian life and thought especially in view of modern Christological reflections. Course code: THE202 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview
THE203 Trinity and Creation	Do you think that the doctrine of the Trinity is just too hard to understand, even though you know that this doctrine is foundational to Christian faith? This unit provides students with an opportunity to reflect deeply on the doctrine of the Trinity – both its historical development and its relevance for the contemporary church. It also explores God’s providential work in the creation and addresses controversial issues such as the creation / evolution debate. Course code: THE203 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview
THE204 Pneumatology	How do you explain Pentecostal distinctives? How well do you understand, and how clearly can you explain, historical developments in pneumatology, such as the filioque controversy? In today’s diverse ecclesial context, how can you engage in ecumenical dialogue locally and globally, and relate pneumatology to ecumenism? Within this unit you will explore the historical developments of pneumatology, including the filioque controversy. You will learn how to explain the development of Pentecostal pneumatology and appraise key distinctives, including the theology of baptism in the Spirit, as well as analyse contemporary theologies of the spirit. You will develop an ability to demonstrate implications drawn from the relationship between pneumatology and ecclesiology, and discriminate between alternate conceptions of church. Beyond this, you will build understanding and skill to be able to relate pneumatology to ecumenism and engage in ecumenical dialogue. Course code: THE204 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview
THE310 Apologetics	Is it possible to make sense of Christian faith in the 21st century? This course explores traditional “proofs” of the existence of God and analyses their contemporary relevance. It considers the relationship between theology and science, and provides students with tools to defend central elements of the Gospel. Students are also challenged to put theory into practice by engaging in discussions about faith with non-Christians. Course code: THE310 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 80 credit points, including THE101 — Christian Worldview
THE311 Ecclesiology	Contemporary churches are often focused on “doing church”, but this unit reflects critically on the nature and mission of the church. It establishes biblical and theological foundations for understanding the church, and then reflects theologically upon historical and contemporary developments. These include discussion of Church leadership structures and contemporary trends, such as the so-called emerging church and multi-centred mega-churches. It also considers the relationship between Church Mission and evangelistic and social work activities, as well as engaging with the contemporary ecumenical movement. Course code: THE311 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE101 — Christian Worldview
THE320 Theology and Psychology	Who am I? What is the soul? How should Christian faith interact with the psychological sciences? This unit considers the theological concepts of grace, sin and freedom as found within traditional Christian theologies of the human person. It also seeks to interact with the discipline of psychology and contemporary insights into the study of the mind. The unit should be of particular interest for all people interested in providing pastoral advice and counselling from a Christian perspective. Course code: THE320 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 80 credit points, including THE101 — Christian Worldview

The following list includes all subjects (units) of study currently available across our postgraduate awards.

UNIT OF STUDY	OVERVIEW
BIB402 Introduction to Israel’s Scriptures (Old Testament)	The aim of this subject is to familiarise students with Israel's Scriptures as a coherent narrative that is of crucial importance to Christians. While this subject includes a discussion of every book in Israel's Scriptures, it goes beyond this to look at how the character of God is communicated and traces significant themes throughout. We will also look at how to read Hebrew narrative and poetry, and at the influence of cultural background on interpretation. Course code: BIB402 Credit points: 10
BIB403 Introduction to the New Testament	This unit aims to introduce you to the New Testament and its “Big-picture” message as we grapple with its different genres, themes and contexts. The primary focus will be on the message of each book and its authors within their particular historical-cultural setting, with some attention being given to its contribution to the theology of the NT as a whole. We will explore the historical and thematic developments of the New Testament books overall, assisting you to understand how the different books and message all fit together. Further, we will discuss how the message of the New Testament Scriptures – set in a very different context to ours – can be applied today. Course code: BIB403 Credit points: 10
BIB502 Interpreting Scripture today	Many people think that the way they understand the Bible is the way anyone would: its meaning is always unambiguous to us all, isn't it? But in reality we cannot avoid interpreting the bible as we read it. So how can we effectively read and interpret the Bible? This is the key question of this unit. To explore this question we will consider a whole range of interpretive issues, including the different genres of biblical literature and the process(es) by which we come to apply the biblical message to our current context. This subject will therefore provide you with the necessary foundation and tools with which to interpret and apply the message of the Bible more thoughtfully. Course code: BIB502 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB520 The Pentateuch	At the beginning of the Bible, we find the Pentateuch or Torah. Genesis to Deuteronomy are essential for understanding our faith today. For ancient Israel it described their origins, creation stories, ancestors, exodus from Egypt, covenant with Yahweh, the journey to the Promised Land and their worship of Yahweh. Similarly for us as Christians, our salvation story is framed by the people, images and stories found in the Pentateuch. In this unit we will explore these foundational themes of creation, faith, salvation, covenant, worship, land and journeying present in the Pentateuch. We will particularly discover the wonder of the Pentateuch’s literary structure and techniques as well as the world it constructs. It will also survey how the Pentateuch sets the stage for what follows in the rest of the biblical canon. Course code: BIB520 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB522 Minor Prophets	Towards the end of the Old Testament are a collection of twelve usually overlooked prophetic books, known as the Minor Prophets. This unit will blow the dust from the Minor Prophets, to get a glimpse into the ancient history of Israel, the prophets and their God-given message. We will specifically study the Minor Prophets as a collage, to highlight the collections’ literary nature, themes, settings and rhetoric, as well as its portrayal of Yahweh. Further, you will be encouraged to harness your own ‘prophetic imagination’ so that you can be a messenger of God to your own generation. Course code: BIB522 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB550 Reading the Synoptic Gospels	The unit examines the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark and Luke) and their (inter)relationship. Whilst their portrayal of Jesus is an obvious outcome, this subject will also explore some unique facets of each of the synoptics, such as the Messianic ‘secret’ of Mark, Matthew's particular theology, as well as key Lukan passages. A key outcome will be the significance of the synoptics for Christian discipleship and ministry. Course code: BIB550 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible

BIB553 Johannines	The Gospel and Letters of John are dearly loved by many Christians today. Rich in theology and symbolism, these texts draw heavily on the Jewish tradition fulfilled in Jesus the Messiah. This unit will equip you to interpret and apply these extraordinary texts, as well as help you to see the ways in which the story of Jesus fulfils the testimony of Israel. Course code: BIB553 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB554 The World of the New Testament	Why would Paul, A Hebrew speaking Jew, writing to Latin speaking Romans, use Greek? Why was the liberating message of the crucified Messiah considered “foolish?” What did the first Christians look like to outsiders? Did Paul really endorse slavery and male headship? So many aspects and difficult issues of the NT are overlooked or misunderstood in the 21st century for the very simple reason that we don’t understand the world of the original text. This course takes a look at the culture, customs, and values of the first century, especially as they relate to the NT. It asks the question “What was that world like?” and “How does the NT challenge it?” It shows how radical this minority group – the Christians – were in the face of the Roman Empire and invites the student to be challenged in their own convictions and values as 21st century Christians. Course code: BIB553 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible OR 40 credit points
BIB561 Luke-Acts	Luke-Acts is a two-volume work which tracks the movement from the ministry of Jesus through to the early church (and beyond!). Obviously this text is therefore of great significance in the New Testament, and has been used by Pentecostals for over a century in our quest to recover a truly biblical faith. This unit examines the narrative of Luke-Acts in a way that holds together the historical and theological foci, and seeks to equip you with a solid reading strategy for approaching these remarkable texts. Course code: BIB561 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB562 Romans and Galatians	Have you ever wondered why Christians don’t follow the full Mosaic Law? Have you ever asked what sets Christianity apart from Judaism? Paul’s letters to the Romans and Galatians answer these questions and more, whilst in many ways these letters reveal most fully the heart of his theology. This unit will also synthesise Paul’s thought into a storyline of history that informs his pastoral and theological reflections. If you are interested in understanding the core Gospel message and its relevance in our contemporary culture then this unit will scratch where you itch! Course code: BIB562 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible OR 40 credit points
BIB565 The Book of Revelation	The Revelation (or the Apocalypse as it is often called, from its opening word in Greek) is by common consent one of the most difficult of all the books of the Christian Bible. Nevertheless, attention to its historical context, social and religious milieu, and literary genre will bring considerable light to bear on its form, content, and function, as well as its relevance for us today and in light of contemporary theological perspectives. Course code: BIB565 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB590 New Testament Field Study	This unit provides students with a first-hand introduction to the relevant cultural, geographical, historical, and archaeological issues for the New Testament. This unit features an on-site field study program in the location of modern day Turkey and Greece – formative for the biblical text – including hikes, Biblical walks, visits to archaeological sites and traditional churches and museums that cast light on Paul’s missionary journeys and epistles, assisting us in exegetical tasks. This course may be offered in the following formats: Requires a Field Study component of approximately 10 days (75 hours), which includes orientation and preparation meetings. This is in addition to the approx. 50 hours out of class time for reading, research, writing, and ancillary activities associated with completion of assigned tasks. Course code: BIB590 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible

CCM401 Introduction to Cross Cultural Ministry	In this unit students have an opportunity to critically explore global mission perspectives and cross cultural ministry within local church and mission organisation contexts. Students analyse the significance of this understanding for local churches and their community and global responsibility, in consideration of biblical, historical, cultural and strategic dimensions. Course code: CCM401 Credit points: 10
COM504 Preaching and Public Communication	Have you ever wished that you could bottle the persuasiveness and power of your favourite preacher in order to supercharge your own sermons and see your congregation transformed? When it comes to sermons, the bridge between the first century text and twenty-first century context can often seem longer than 2000-plus years. If you want to discover what turns effective preaching into life-changing preaching, and bring revelation to postmodern people who struggle with the Christian story, then look no further. Get ready to be equipped with the rhetorical tools in this unit to craft a message so powerful that it will be impossible for your audience to leave unchanged. Course code: COM504 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points PLUS RES401 — Postgraduate Research and Writing or equivalent
EXP501 Professional Practice	Itching to connect the realm of the classroom with some real-life experience? Professional Practice is designed with just this aim in mind. Students will have the have the chance to engage academically with issues pertaining to their major specialisation plus experience a hands-on workplace placement. Working with an experienced supervisory mentor (no family members or close friends!), students will complete a 100 hour placement over the course of semester, with a variety of formats to choose from. For instance, do you have a heart for local church ministry? You could complete 8 hours a week in a ministry of Hillsong Church, working with a key leader or oversight. Or perhaps a block placement involved in one of the Hillsong Church’s annual Conferences would be the kick start needed... The sky is the limit! Course code: EXP501 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points
HIS401 History of Christianity	This subject is an introduction to the rich and inspiring heritage of Christian tradition, from the time of Christ to the current era, examined within social and cultural contexts. It explores early church formation, the challenges of the Medieval era, the repercussions of the Renaissance and the reasons for the Reformation. Major revivals are analysed as well as the effectiveness of modern missionary movements. The struggles and strengths of the 20th century are also revealed, as well as various issues facing the 21st century church. By exploring such historical shifts in spirituality and society, students will gain understanding of both contingency and continuity in Christian history, in order to deepen their understanding of gospel ministry today. Course code: HIS401 Credit points: 10
HIS502 Early and Medieval History	This subject examines the context, origins and development of early Christianity and its impact on the surrounding communities from the Apostolic Age to the Continental Reformation. It explores how the rapid expansion of the church brought various social, cultural and theological challenges and examines how these were addressed. The contextualisation of medieval Christian thoughts and actions are discussed, as well as their formative influences in contemporary contexts. An analysis of major reform movements will also reveal how they have shaped the history of Christianity. Course code: HIS502 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: 40 credit points OR HIS401 — History of Christianity
MIN402 Christian Spirituality	Ever wondered if there were other ways to express faith, apart from lifting your hands during worship? Would you like to deepen the spirituality of your local Christian community, but find yourself hesitating, uncertain of the appropriate boundaries? Students with these questions and more will find themselves challenged as they partake in this foundational unit, designed specifically to introduce charismatic and Pentecostal Christians to the broader history of Christian spiritual approaches. In doing so, students will explore spirituality in the scriptures, and have a chance to connect with their heritage and participate in a broad range of spiritual exercises practiced by the wider body of Christ throughout history. Course code: MIN402 Credit points: 10

MIN510 Communicating the Christian Faith	The ‘E’ word: Evangelism – is a concept that can equally incite ‘excitement’ and ‘excruciation’. In this unit, extroverts and introverts alike will find themselves engaging with the historical, biblical and theological roots for communicating the Gospel and gaining the skills (along with the empowering of the Spirit) to communicate effectively. In doing so, students will explore ways to engage with a world where the acceptance of the Christian story is counter-cultural, as well as ways to connect the good news of the kingdom to contemporary social concerns. Course code: MIN510 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points OR MIN401 — Foundations of Pastoral Ministry
RES401 Postgraduate Research and Writing	This unit gives you the tools of how to succeed in your postgraduate academic studies. You will develop an ability to analyse, synthesise and critically engage with academic literature and build an understanding of the research process, including different methodologies and their underlying assumptions. Plus, in addition to building an understanding of academic writing as a genre, you will have opportunity to develop your own academic writing skills. Course code: RES401 Credit points: 10
RES500 Independent Guided Research	This research unit is undertaken with a supervisor and provides you with an opportunity to pursue a research question in your area of interest. You will demonstrate knowledge of methodology relevant to your research question, enabling you to identify the appropriate research method to address your question. You will develop your ability to identify and develop a research question in a chosen area of interest, and to execute research method to complete your research, including a significant literature review. To secure your supervisor for this unit, we recommend beginning discussions with the Masters Program Coordinator to assist you in allocation of a supervisor before enrolling in this unit. The earlier you begin this process, the better you will be set up for a great research project! Course code: RES500 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: RES401 or equivalent and completion of at least 3 subjects in major area and at least 1 elective.
RES501 Research Project	This core unit is the capstone of your postgraduate study towards completion of your Master of Arts. It provides an opportunity for you to pursue a guided research project in your chosen area of interest within your specialisation, under the guidance of a supervisor. You will demonstrate knowledge of methodology and exhibit a critically reflective understanding of fundamental techniques and described methodological process. With this knowledge and understanding, you will be able to demonstrate an advanced ability in formulating a research question and outlining an appropriate research plan for data collection. Using this question and research plan, you will then work to produce a clearly expressed, well-structured and well-argued research essay, which appropriately engages the peer-reviewed literature in the relevant area of interest. Successful completion of this research project gives you an opportunity to develop your postgraduate research skills as you investigate a more significant and complex research question than otherwise possible in a coursework award. Completion of this research project can also help you gain insight into whether you might consider future research studies, for example, a Master of Theology. To secure your supervisor for your research project, we recommend beginning discussions with the Masters Program Coordinator to assist you in allocation of a supervisor before enrolling in this unit. The earlier you begin this process, the better you will be set up for a great research project! Course code: RES501 Credit points: 20 Prerequisites: RES401 Postgraduate Research and Writing or equivalent and completion of at least 3 subjects in specialisation area and at least 1 elective. As well as a GPA 2.8 or higher.
THE401 Christian Worldview	Do you have questions about God, humanity and the world that you have been unable to answer? Do you sometimes wonder whether Christian beliefs about things like the Trinity and the divinity of Jesus make any sense? This unit provides you with the opportunity to explore those beliefs that are foundational to Christianity. It argues that what we believe about God (our theology) has a practical impact upon our life and ethics and, therefore, provides an overview of Christian faith, and reflects on the ways in which this faith informs our everyday life and calling. The topics addressed range from the doctrine of God, creation and sin, to discussion on the person and work of Christ, and the nature of the coming Kingdom of God and His Church. Course code: THE401 Credit points: 10

THE501 Christology	Is it an oxymoron (contradiction) to claim that Jesus is both human and divine? How do we make sense of Jesus’ death on the cross? Is the resurrection something that can be believed in this modern scientific era? These are the sort of questions addressed in this unit, which provides students with the opportunity to explore central elements of Christian faith at a deeper level of theological reflection. It explores what has traditionally been labelled the “person” and “work” of Jesus, i.e. “who is he?” and “what did he do for us?”. In answering these questions, students are encouraged to reflect on both the ancient traditions of the bible and early church and, further, to discuss the significance of Jesus Christ for contemporary Christian life and thought especially in view of modern Christological reflections. Course code: THE501 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE502 Trinity and Creation	Do you think that the doctrine of the Trinity is just too hard to understand, even though you know that this doctrine is foundational to Christian faith? THE503 Spirit and Church	How do you explain Pentecostal distinctives? How well do you understand, and how clearly can you explain, historical developments in pneumatology, such as the filioque controversy? In today’s diverse ecclesial context, how can you engage in ecumenical dialogue locally and globally, and relate pneumatology to ecumenism? Within this unit you will explore the historical developments of pneumatology, including the filioque controversy. You will learn how to explain the development of Pentecostal pneumatology and appraise key distinctives, including the theology of baptism in the Spirit, as well as analyse contemporary theologies of the spirit. THE504 Christian Ethics	In an era of moral relativism, Christians should stand out as moral beacons. However, it is increasingly the case that the Church is seen not as a community of love but, rather, as a legalistic, dogmatic, mean-spirited and hypocritical institution. This unit helps students to think through how they go about making ethical decisions. It argues against legalism, and sets up a theological method of approaching ethics that prioritises grace and the power of the Spirit. It also facilitates guided reflection on personal morality and societal ethical issues. Course code: THE504 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE512 Apologetics	Is it possible to make sense of Christian faith in the 21st century? This course explores traditional “proofs” of the existence of God and analyses their contemporary relevance. It considers the relationship between theology and science, and provides students with tools to defend central elements of the Gospel. Students are also challenged to put theory into practice by engaging in discussions about faith with non-Christians. Course code: THE512 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview

The following list includes all subjects (units) of study currently available across our postgraduate awards.

UNIT OF STUDY	OVERVIEW
ANL502 New Testament Greek 2	New Testament Greek 2 builds on from Greek 1 to give you a solid foundation for your knowledge of Biblical Greek. This unit rounds out a full year of Greek study and will equip you with a good working knowledge of Greek grammar, and it is from this basis that you can launch into more advanced syntactical and exegetical study of the New Testament texts. Greek 2, in a way, puts ‘wheels’ on your study of Greek, as we come to see more fully the beauty of the Greek verbal system and its significance for understanding the original texts. Course code: ANL502 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: ANL402 — New Greek Testament 1
BIB502 Interpreting Scripture today	Many people think that the way they understand the Bible is the way anyone would: its meaning is always unambiguous to us all, isn’t it? But in reality we cannot avoid interpreting the bible as we read it. So how can we effectively read and interpret the Bible? This is the key question of this unit. To explore this question we will consider a whole range of interpretive issues, including the different genres of biblical literature and the process(es) by which we come to apply the biblical message to our current context. This subject will therefore provide you with the necessary foundation and tools with which to interpret and apply the message of the Bible more thoughtfully. Course code: BIB502 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB520 The Pentateuch	At the beginning of the Bible, we find the Pentateuch or Torah. Genesis to Deuteronomy are essential for understanding our faith today. For ancient Israel it described their origins, creation stories, ancestors, exodus from Egypt, covenant with Yahweh, the journey to the Promised Land and their worship of Yahweh. Similarly for us as Christians, our salvation story is framed by the people, images and stories found in the Pentateuch. In this unit we will explore these foundational themes of creation, faith, salvation, covenant, worship, land and journeying present in the Pentateuch. We will particularly discover the wonder of the Pentateuch’s literary structure and techniques as well as the world it constructs. It will also survey how the Pentateuch sets the stage for what follows in the rest of the biblical canon. Course code: BIB520 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB522 Minor Prophets	Towards the end of the Old Testament are a collection of twelve usually overlooked prophetic books, known as the Minor Prophets. This unit will blow the dust from the Minor Prophets, to get a glimpse into the ancient history of Israel, the prophets and their God-given message. We will specifically study the Minor Prophets as a collage, to highlight the collections’ literary nature, themes, settings and rhetoric, as well as its portrayal of Yahweh. Further, you will be encouraged to harness your own ‘prophetic imagination’ so that you can be a messenger of God to your own generation. Course code: BIB522 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB550 Reading the Synoptic Gospels	The unit examines the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark and Luke) and their (inter)relationship. Whilst their portrayal of Jesus is an obvious outcome, this subject will also explore some unique facets of each of the synoptics, such as the Messianic ‘secret’ of Mark, Matthew’s particular theology, as well as key Lukan passages. A key outcome will be the significance of the synoptics for Christian discipleship and ministry. Course code: BIB550 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB553 Johannines	The Gospel and Letters of John are dearly loved by many Christians today. Rich in theology and symbolism, these texts draw heavily on the Jewish tradition fulfilled in Jesus the Messiah. This unit will equip you to interpret and apply these extraordinary texts, as well as help you to see the ways in which the story of Jesus fulfils the testimony of Israel. Course code: BIB553 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible

BIB554 The World of the New Testament	Why would Paul, A Hebrew speaking Jew, writing to Latin speaking Romans, use Greek? Why was the liberating message of the crucified Messiah considered “foolish?” What did the first Christians look like to outsiders? Did Paul really endorse slavery and male headship? So many aspects and difficult issues of the NT are overlooked or misunderstood in the 21st century for the very simple reason that we don’t understand the world of the original text. This course takes a look at the culture, customs, and values of the first century, especially as they relate to the NT. It asks the question “What was that world like?” and “How does the NT challenge it?” It shows how radical this minority group – the Christians – were in the face of the Roman Empire and invites the student to be challenged in their own convictions and values as 21st century Christians. Course code: BIB553 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible OR 40 credit points
BIB561 Luke-Acts	Luke-Acts is a two-volume work which tracks the movement from the ministry of Jesus through to the early church (and beyond!). Obviously this text is therefore of great significance in the New Testament, and has been used by Pentecostals for over a century in our quest to recover a truly biblical faith. This unit examines the narrative of Luke-Acts in a way that holds together the historical and theological foci, and seeks to equip you with a solid reading strategy for approaching these remarkable texts. Course code: BIB561 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB562 Romans and Galatians	Have you ever wondered why Christians don’t follow the full Mosaic Law? Have you ever asked what sets Christianity apart from Judaism? Paul’s letters to the Romans and Galatians answer these questions and more, whilst in many ways these letters reveal most fully the heart of his theology. This unit will also synthesise Paul’s thought into a storyline of history that informs his pastoral and theological reflections. If you are interested in understanding the core Gospel message and its relevance in our contemporary culture then this unit will scratch where you itch! Course code: BIB562 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible OR 40 credit points
BIB565 The Book of Revelation	The Revelation (or the Apocalypse as it is often called, from its opening word in Greek) is by common consent one of the most difficult of all the books of the Christian Bible. Nevertheless, attention to its historical context, social and religious milieu, and literary genre will bring considerable light to bear on its form, content, and function, as well as its relevance for us today and in light of contemporary theological perspectives. Course code: BIB565 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB590 New Testament Field Study	This unit provides students with a first-hand introduction to the relevant cultural, geographical, historical, and archaeological issues for the New Testament. This unit features an on-site field study program in the location of modern day Turkey and Greece – formative for the biblical text – including hikes, Biblical walks, visits to archaeological sites and traditional churches and museums that cast light on Paul’s missionary journeys and epistles, assisting us in exegetical tasks. This course may be offered in the following formats: Requires a Field Study component of approximately 10 days (75 hours), which includes orientation and preparation meetings. This is in addition to the approx. 50 hours out of class time for reading, research, writing, and ancillary activities associated with completion of assigned tasks. Course code: BIB590 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: BIB401 — Introduction to the Bible
BIB601 Methods in Biblical Studies	This unit is taken as part of your development of an area of specialisation in Biblical Studies. You will build a detailed understanding of the historical development of the theory and practice of methods in biblical studies, including historical-critical methods, literary approaches, ideological criticisms, and social-scientific theories. You will critically evaluate the validity, usefulness and consequences of different approaches to biblical studies, demonstrate advanced proficiency in using methods of biblical studies and advanced skills in biblical exegesis. Course code: BIB601 Credit points: 20 Prerequisites: RES601 — Research Methods

BIB602 Seminar Presentation of Research in Biblical Studies	This unit is taken as part of your development of an area of specialisation in Biblical Studies. In this unit, you will propose a topic of research within biblical studies and formulate a research proposal. You will demonstrate advanced research skills, critical engagement with alternate perspectives and the ability to make a solid argument; utilise an appropriate method to develop a coherent argument on selected issues or passage; and present the results of research to peers and respond critically and generously to the research of others. Course code: BIB602 Credit points: 20 Prerequisites: BIB601 — Methods in Biblical Studies
COM504 Preaching and Public Communication	Have you ever wished that you could bottle the persuasiveness and power of your favourite preacher in order to supercharge your own sermons and see your congregation transformed? When it comes to sermons, the bridge between the first century text and twenty-first century context can often seem longer than 2000-plus years. If you want to discover what turns effective preaching into life-changing preaching, and bring revelation to postmodern people who struggle with the Christian story, then look no further. Get ready to be equipped with the rhetorical tools in this unit to craft a message so powerful that it will be impossible for your audience to leave unchanged. Course code: COM504 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points PLUS RES401 — Postgraduate Research and Writing or equivalent
EXP501 Professional Practice	Itching to connect the realm of the classroom with some real-life experience? Professional Practice is designed with just this aim in mind. Students will have the have the chance to engage academically with issues pertaining to their major specialisation plus experience a hands-on workplace placement. Working with an experienced supervisory mentor (no family members or close friends!), students will complete a 100 hour placement over the course of semester, with a variety of formats to choose from. For instance, do you have a heart for local church ministry? You could complete 8 hours a week in a ministry of Hillsong Church, working with a key leader or oversight. Or perhaps a block placement involved in one of the Hillsong Church’s annual Conferences would be the kick start needed... The sky is the limit! Course code: EXP501 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points
HIS502 Early and Medieval History	This subject examines the context, origins and development of early Christianity and its impact on the surrounding communities from the Apostolic Age to the Continental Reformation. It explores how the rapid expansion of the church brought various social, cultural and theological challenges and examines how these were addressed. The contextualisation of medieval Christian thoughts and actions are discussed, as well as their formative influences in contemporary contexts. An analysis of major reform movements will also reveal how they have shaped the history of Christianity. Course code: HIS502 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: 40 credit points OR HIS401 — History of Christianity
MIN510 Communicating the Christian Faith	The ‘E’ word: Evangelism – is a concept that can equally incite ‘excitement’ and ‘excruciation’. In this unit, extroverts and introverts alike will find themselves engaging with the historical, biblical and theological roots for communicating the Gospel and gaining the skills (along with the empowering of the Spirit) to communicate effectively. In doing so, students will explore ways to engage with a world where the acceptance of the Christian story is counter-cultural, as well as ways to connect the good news of the kingdom to contemporary social concerns. Course code: MIN510 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: At least 40 credit points OR MIN401 — Foundations of Pastoral Ministry
RES500 Independent Guided Research	This research unit is undertaken with a supervisor and provides you with an opportunity to pursue a research question in your area of interest. You will demonstrate knowledge of methodology relevant to your research question, enabling you to identify the appropriate research method to address your question. You will develop your ability to identify and develop a research question in a chosen area of interest, and to execute research method to complete your research, including a significant literature review. To secure your supervisor for this unit, we recommend beginning discussions with the Masters Program Coordinator to assist you in allocation of a supervisor before enrolling in this unit. The earlier you begin this process, the better you will be set up for a great research project! Course code: RES500 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: RES401 or equivalent and completion of at least 3 subjects in major area and at least 1 elective.

UNIT OF STUDY	OVERVIEW
RES601 Research Methods	This core research methods unit is taken at the commencement of your Master of Theology. Within this unit you will demonstrate an in-depth understanding of quantitative, qualitative and mixed methodologies approaches to research and demonstrate a broad understanding of basic statistical techniques in data interpretation. You will demonstrate the ability to formulate a research question and outline an appropriate research plan for data collection; articulate a research question and apply the knowledge and skills developed within the selected research field to develop appropriate solutions. Further, you will also effectively construct and communicate a research project which will inform and enhance the selected research field. Course code: RES601 Credit points: 20
RES602 Research Project	This core unit is the capstone of your development of an area of specialisation and advanced research skills within your Master of Theology. It provides an opportunity for you to pursue an in-depth independent research project, in consultation with an approved supervisor. The research project should be in the area of specialisation (either Theology or Biblical Studies). You will identify and develop an approved research question to be investigated in a subject area of suitable complexity and represented by a major stream in the relevant degree. You will describe a suitably sophisticated method for resolving the research question, construct a critical literature review for the area of research in interaction with described methodology and high level, peer-reviewed scholarship, then show an advanced competence in descriptive, critical and analytic skills with respect to the topic of your research. This culminates in you producing a piece of work of the defined length of 20,000 words which is clearly expressed, well-structured and well-argued relative to the appropriate topic, and which appropriately engages the peer-reviewed literature in the area. Course code: RES602 Credit points: 40 Prerequisites: RES601 — Research Methods
THE501 Christology	Is it an oxymoron (contradiction) to claim that Jesus is both human and divine? How do we make sense of Jesus’ death on the cross? Is the resurrection something that can be believed in this modern scientific era? These are the sort of questions addressed in this unit, which provides students with the opportunity to explore central elements of Christian faith at a deeper level of theological reflection. It explores what has traditionally been labelled the “person” and “work” of Jesus, i.e. “who is he?” and “what did he do for us?”. In answering these questions, students are encouraged to reflect on both the ancient traditions of the bible and early church and, further, to discuss the significance of Jesus Christ for contemporary Christian life and thought especially in view of modern Christological reflections. Course code: THE501 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE502 Trinity and Creation	Do you think that the doctrine of the Trinity is just too hard to understand, even though you know that this doctrine is foundational to Christian faith? This unit provides students with an opportunity to reflect deeply on the doctrine of the Trinity – both its historical development and its relevance for the contemporary church. It also explores God’s providential work in the creation and addresses controversial issues such as the creation / evolution debate. Course code: THE502 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE503 Spirit and Church	How do you explain Pentecostal distinctives? How well do you understand, and how clearly can you explain, historical developments in pneumatology, such as the filioque controversy? In today's diverse ecclesial context, how can you engage in ecumenical dialogue locally and globally, and relate pneumatology to ecumenism? Within this unit you will explore the historical developments of pneumatology, including the filioque controversy. You will learn how to explain the development of Pentecostal pneumatology and appraise key distinctives, including the theology of baptism in the Spirit, as well as analyse contemporary theologies of the spirit. You will develop an ability to demonstrate implications drawn from the relationship between pneumatology and ecclesiology, and discriminate between alternate conceptions of church. Beyond this, you will build understanding and skill to be able to relate pneumatology to ecumenism and engage in ecumenical dialogue. Course code: THE503 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview

THE504 Christian Ethics	In an era of moral relativism, Christians should stand out as moral beacons. However, it is increasingly the case that the Church is seen not as a community of love but, rather, as a legalistic, dogmatic, mean-spirited and hypocritical institution. This unit helps students to think through how they go about making ethical decisions. It argues against legalism, and sets up a theological method of approaching ethics that prioritises grace and the power of the Spirit. It also facilitates guided reflection on personal morality and societal ethical issues. Course code: THE504 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE510 Theology and Popular Culture	Conservative Christian communities have long been suspicious of popular culture. It is increasingly apparent, however, that if the church is going be relevant in the modern world, it needs to find ways to engage with the mediums of popular culture; film, television, music and the internet. Building on Christian Worldview studies, this unit teaches students tools for interpreting pop culture texts, and encourages critical analysis. It focuses particularly on film, but provides students the option of exploring other mediums. Teaching strategies include listening to podcast lectures and gathering together to watch and discuss films. The unit will feel a little like a series of “nights-out” although beneath all the fun is some serious reflection on the culture within which we live and minister. Course code: THE510 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE512 Apologetics	Is it possible to make sense of Christian faith in the 21st century? This course explores traditional “proofs” of the existence of God and analyses their contemporary relevance. It considers the relationship between theology and science, and provides students with tools to defend central elements of the Gospel. Students are also challenged to put theory into practice by engaging in discussions about faith with non-Christians. Course code: THE512 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE520 The Church and Social Justice	This unit provides a biblical theology of holistic mission and Gospel proclamation that takes seriously the responsibility of the church to address issues of justice and poverty. It argues scripturally and theologically that the good news of the Kingdom of God has vital implications for social and cultural values and practice. Too often in our western society we see political ideology claiming these values. As Christians we need to reclaim them as expressions of our faith, and as reflections of God’s Kingdom on earth. Course code: THE520 Credit points: 10 Prerequisites: THE401 — Christian Worldview
THE601 Theologians: Method and Meaning	This unit is taken as part of your development of an area of specialisation in Theology. You will develop an advanced ability to explain the contribution of selected theologians central to Christian tradition (pre-20th Century) to contemporary thought and practice; compare, contrast and evaluate the theological insights of selected authors; and summarise the theological method of key 20th/21st Century theologians and explain the way this frames their theology; and present research conclusions to peers and engage in constructive and critical dialogue. Course code: THE601 Credit points: 20 Prerequisites: RES601 — Research Methods
THE602 Seminar Presentation of Theological Research	This unit is taken as part of your development of an area of specialisation in Theology. In this unit, you will explain the epistemological perspectives of contemporary western culture and discriminate between alternate theological responses. You will propose a topic of research on a contemporary theological issue and formulate a research proposal; demonstrate advanced research skills, critical engagement with alternate perspectives and the ability to make a solid argument; utilise an appropriate theological method to develop a coherent argument on selected theological issues; and present the results of research to peers and respond critically and generously to the research of others. Course code: THE602 Credit points: 20 Prerequisites: THE601 — Theologians: Method and Meaning

FAQ

How diverse is the student body?

One of the greatest benefits of studying at Hillsong College is our international student body, helping students to form friendships and lasting connections with students from across the globe. Even while studying at our USA Campus, students will be connected with our global staff and student body. Together, our alumni represent more than 70 nations.

Does Hillsong College offer scholarships or financial aid to students?

At this time, Hillsong College does not provide scholarships or financial aid. Students provide for their fees in various ways – including saving before their course commences, working while they study, being sponsored by their home church or fundraising support within their community.

If you are unable to pay full-time semester fees, we encourage you to consider our flexible part-time options.

How much will my course cost and do I need to pay it all upfront?

Course fees vary between programs and awards. To find more information about fees specific to your preferred program, visit hillsong.com/college/tuition.

Tuition is due before each semester. Some courses are eligible for a Deferred Payment Plan, available from a student's second semester onwards. This allows students to pay their tuition in instalments.

Are Hillsong College courses accredited?

Our vocational courses are accredited with Australian Skills Quality Authority (ASQA), the Australian Government agency charged with quality and regulation of the vocational education and training sector in Australia.

Our online or on-campus undergraduate and postgraduate degrees are obtained and accredited through our partnership with Alphacrucis College located in Sydney Australia.

Our online Masterclasses are not accredited; rather, they function as short classes to equip and empower you wherever you are.

Are Hillsong College credits transferrable to other universities?

Our accredited vocational courses are designed to flow seamlessly into undergraduate and graduate programs at Hillsong College, and with the universities that we partner with globally. You can learn more through here: hillsong.com/college/partnerships

Does Hillsong College provide student housing?

Yes! If you apply for student housing through Hillsong College, we will source local accommodation on your behalf, near the campus of your choice. HC accommodation is shared living, in which you're able to interact and live with other students. Generally, these properties are houses or apartments within the local area surrounding our campuses. Please note that these properties are not guaranteed to be furnished. Depending on the size of the property, you may live with 4 – 7 other students. Alternatively, you are welcome to source your own local accommodation.

To learn more about our accommodation and cost estimates, visit: hillsong.com/college/accommodation.

How many hours per week will I spend studying?

If you are a Vocational student, please allow at least 3-4 hours per subject.
If you are a Higher Ed student, please allow at least 6-8 hours per subject.

What student support is available for Hillsong College students?

Hillsong College is dedicated to the care and wellbeing of our student body. Right at the start of their journey, we welcome them into our community through orientations, information sessions and opportunities to get to know our HC team.

Throughout their studies, students have access to emotional and practical support through our Pastoral Care Team and can access academic advice and assistance through our learning support system.

What are the benefits of hiring Hillsong College graduates?

Our alumni can be found influencing nations, churches, families and industries across the globe. Hillsong College exists to raise students to their fullest potential, equip them with industry skills and knowledge, empower them to outwork their studies and release them to lead lives of impact and influence. The hands-on experience that is embedded in our curriculum prepares students for a life of ministry within the church or any career pathway they choose to pursue. Through practical training, students learn leadership, key decision making, team management, problem solving, communication, pastoral leadership and creative skills that have proven to be integral across a number of industries.

Who can I talk to if I have more questions?
